Wegmans sets its sights on Landmark in the Fenway

Business. The massive grocery store chain is still working on a deal to locate in the Fenway neighborhood.

Bostonians are hoping to finally get a taste about the fuss over Wegmans grocery stores, but it may be a while.

Mayor Thomas Menino announced Monday in a speech to the Boston Municipal Research Bureau that the New York-based chain will open in the Fenway neighborhood.

"It will open in the Landmark Center and continue the progress in that neighborhood," Menino said in his prepared remarks. His speech focused on the progress of business development in the city.

However, it's unclear when that will happen, as a spokeswoman for the chain said a deal is still being worked out.

"We are very interested in a site in the Fenway neighborhood," Jo Natale, the Wegmans spokeswoman, said in a statement. "Discussions with the developer are under way, and we anticipate that an acceptable agreement can be reached in the near future."

Wegmans, which has 81 stores in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic, is known for its massive, maze-like stores that boast more than 70,000 items. Its enormous prepared-food section offers scores of items, including pizza, subs, sushi and fresh-made popcorn and potato chips.

The closest store to Boston and only one in Massachusetts opened in Northborough in 2011 and was said to break the chain's opening-day record when 25,000 visited the location, according to reports. The 140,000-square-foot store has 600 employees and a restaurant with seating for 300. At the time it was reported to be the biggest grocery store in New England.

The family-owned chain was founded in 1916. In 2011, after its Northborough store opening, it announced plans to locate in Chestnut Hill with a smaller, "urban concept" 70,000-square-foot store. The chain, like others, is looking to open urban markets smaller than the massive suburban stores. The Chestnut Hill store is likely to be the model for the Fenway one, according to the Globe.

Location, location!

The Landmark Center is a 1 million-square-foot mixed-use development located on Park Drive.

- Its current tenants include Best Buy, Regal Cinemas and REI.
- Samuels & Associates bought the property two years ago.

Police: Bouncer busted in bar patron beatings

Crime. An online video led to the arrest of a bouncer accused of beating patrons.

Police say Sidney Phillips was the bouncer caught on video. / YOUTUBE

A bouncer at a North Station area bar was arrested after his alleged violent attack last weekend on a patron was caught on video and posted online.

Boston police said that they arrested Sidney Phillips, 31, of Avon. He posted bail and will be arraigned Tuesday.

Officers responded to the Grand Canal bar at about 1:30 a.m. Sunday for a fight in progress.

Witness and victims told police that a group of about 10 men and women were taking a picture inside the bar when one of them accidentally bumped into another woman, a fight broke out and bouncers got involved.

The victims told officers it was during that time, while they were outside the bar, that Phillips kicked, punched and choked them, police said.

Officers said at least four people had facial injuries.

The short video clip that was posted online shows a man taking a swing at Phillips, being tackled to the ground and then being kicked in the head three times by Phillips.

A woman who answered the phone at the Grand Canal said there was no comment.

A message left at a number listed for Phillips was not returned by press time.

MBTA. Rider catches masturbator on camera

Smartphones have made it abundantly clear that any public action could end up online — including masturbation.

Transit Police yesterday released a photograph of a man with his hand down his pants while seated on a Red Line train, and asked the public's help in identifying him.

Witnesses told police that the suspect tried to initiate conversation with women while "committing a lewd act," aka masturbation.

It was the second incident of alleged public masturbation on the T that day.

A woman tweeted a photograph of a man on the Orange Line, with the caption, "I just saw this guy messing with himself. I reported him. Please watch out. Gross." METRO/MR

Hailo Boston pushing for later weekend T service

Hailo Boston said it receives about 300 percent more requests for cabs between 1 and 2 a.m. on the weekend. / HAILO

Transportation. Things can get ugly during the late-night cab-hailing rush.

Local taxi-hailing app Hailo Boston says new data on late-night cab requests shows there is a tremendous need for later MBTA service.

The company yesterday reported a "very noticeable spike" — as much as 300 percent — in requests for cabs between 1 and 2 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

"While we have a great service that helps to serve that gap hour, there is also a need for more options than just cab rides," said Vanessa Kafka, general manager of Hailo Boston. "Having the T stay open an extra hour will better serve the city and make it safer for Boston residents getting home."

None of the other cities Hailo serves — like Dublin, London, Toronto and Chicago — showed as much of a surge in cab traffic, Kafka said.

To help their push, Hailo launched a new social media contest that lets Boston residents weigh in on whether the T should stay open later.

"It can be anxiety-inducing for drivers; people are literally throwing themselves into the streets to stop cabs."

Relations. John Kerry makes unannounced visit to Afghanistan

Secretary of State John Kerry made a show of unity with Afghan President Hamid Karzai during a short visit to Afghanistan yesterday, following weeks of heightened tensions between the two countries.

Kerry made the unannounced visit to Afghanistan in order to discuss a host of issues including attempts to stabilize the country before most foreign troops leave by the end of 2014, the transfer of security responsibility to Afghan forces and Afghanistan's elections, a U.S. official told reporters.

The two leaders held a news conference at the presidential palace in Kabul. During it, Karzai confronted questions about his remarks earlier this month accusing the Taliban of undertaking attacks "in service of America."

Gay marriage cases to define US Supreme Court

Politics. The U.S. Supreme Court considers the constitutionality of marriage for gay men and lesbians in the coming week.

For same-sex marriage and civil unions, a Reuters/Ipsos poll in mid-March found deep differences of opinion regionally, although support was at 63 percent nationwide.
/ JUSTIN SULLIVAN/GETTY IMAGES

In their first-ever review of same-sex marriage laws, the nine justices on the country's highest court are hearing arguments today and tomorrow on one of the most politically charged dilemmas of the day, bound with themes of religion, sexuality and social custom.

The paired cases will be heard at a time when opinion polls show surging approval for gay unions and when prominent individuals and groups, such as the American Academy of Pediatrics, have been announcing support for same-sex marriage on a nearly daily basis.

Beyond the public drama, and central to the justices' regard for their own role, the marriage dispute offers a classic test of when courts should intervene in social dilemmas that have traditionally been the province of the states.

With such cultural and judicial crosscurrents, the controversy naturally draws a comparison to one of the court's most defining cases in the past 40 years. The 1973 Roe v. Wade decision made abortion legal nationwide just as states were weighing related legislation. The ruling generated a social and political backlash that endures today.

Meet the new(est) Mrs. Jesse James

Fourth time is the charm? Jesse James has tied the knot for wedding No. 4, marrying drag racer Alexis DeJoria in Malibu this weekend after dating for less than two months, according to Star magazine. James' most recent marriage, to Sandra Bullock, ended in divorce in 2010 after publicly humiliating her with his infidelity. DeJoria seems more forgiving — and totally loaded. She's the daughter of billionaire Paul Mitchell co-founder John Paul DeJoria, who also helped launched Patron tequila and the House of Blues nightclub chain. "Jesse's always had a man-crush on John Paul, and what better way to get close to him than to get hitched to his daughter?" a source says. "But this marriage will be his fourth. If I were John Paul — after what Jesse put Sandra through — I'd be warning him up front that when it comes to Alexis, he'd better watch his butt." But hey: free tequila. Amiright?

Author Mary Roach delights in probing the science of the human body that most people would rather just ignore. In "Stiff," she followed the body through its post-mortem pathways; in "Packing For Mars," she uncovered the less glorified side of the space program through zero-gravity toilets. In her latest, "Gulp: Adventures on the Alimentary Canal," Roach trains her steel-stomached curiosity on the science of eating and digestion, finding labs where pet food is taste-tested and windows are opened to the human stomach (literally).

"Once you take food off the table and put it into your body, it becomes an object of revulsion," says Roach. "So it's yet another topic that I thought would be fun to pull apart."

As she puts it, "Anytime you peel away the skin and reveal the fact that we're just big bags of digesting, secreting, pumping, gloppy, sticky, icky stuff, it's upsetting."

Having a real good time with Sigur Ros?

Music. However serious their music might sound, this Icelandic band are "not very serious people."

At the top of the year, Icelandic post-rockers Sigur Ros announced that after 14 years, multi-instrumentalist Kjartan Sveinsson had left the band.

"I guess he's tired of touring and wanted to do other stuff," says bassist Georg Holm matter-of-factly. "It's all on a very friendly note."

Indeed, there seems to be no drama surrounding Sveinsson's departure, and the remaining trio — Holm, singer Jon "Jonsi" Por Birgisson and drummer Orri Pall Dyrason — have already recorded a new album, titled "Kveikur," which Holm says is "as good as finished."

It comes less than a year after Sigur Ros released their sixth studio album "Valtari."

"We've been very productive. We've been working quickly and having great fun. When you're having fun, it's easy to go to work. If you enjoy what you do, it's all fun. We never really stop working."

Sigur Ros and the word "fun" don't exactly go hand in hand. Their emotionally engulfing and sometimes wrought music gives them a serious aura.

"We are absolutely not very serious people," says Holm with a chuckle.

For their spring tour, the core creative trio will be augmented with strings and brass. Their set will feature 13 musicians in all.

"We actually have two extra people to replace Kjaten," says Holm. "One playing guitar and one playing piano. Yeah, it was big shoes to fill."

There are an estimated 12,000 summer camps in the United States. Make sure you pick the right one. / MARK JENKINSON

What to ask before your kid goes to camp

Camping. Alan Saltz, the director of New York City's 92nd Street Y's Camp program, shares his 30-plus years of camp experience to let parents know what they should be asking.

You might still be focusing on making it through the winter, but the time to start thinking about enrolling your child in summer camp is already in full swing. With so many options out there, it can be tough to make these decisions. Alan Saltz, director of summer camp programs at the 92nd Street Y in New York City, is here to help.

Quoted

"Every camp has its own little narrative about who they are and what they stand for; it's important."
Saltz

How can a parent figure out if their child is ready for sleepaway camp?
If they've had sleepovers at friend's houses, or have been away from home for a short period of time, they can gauge how they've done in those situations. There are a lot of two-week options out there now, which is good for a lot of kids. Most kids start at 8 or 9.

How do you recommend that a parent begin to research camps?
It's a long process. There are camp fairs that are offered on a regular basis. This gives a parent the opportunity to see a number of camps in one afternoon and meet with the directors. I recommend they talk not just about the activities and facilities, but talk about the staff, camp philosophy. Every camp has its own little narrative about who they are and what they stand for; it's important.

Do you have advice for how parents can prepare kids?
Once they've made that decision, parents should have a running narrative with their kids about how much fun they're going to have. They should also address any concerns the kids have. They should also stay away from saying things like "I'm going to miss you so much."

NATALIE SHURE
letters@metro.us

Camp 101

What's the best part of the camp experience for kids? Why should parents be interested?
It gives kids an opportunity to develop skills and interests and abilities in areas that aren't focused on in schools. It's a less threatening environment. They can make friends and take risks in a safe environment.

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20. Be cognizant of the odds against you when you set out to address a career situation. Don't waste time doing it the hard way if you don't have to, regardless of precedent.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21. Think twice before you stop doing something the way it's always been done. If you leap into a new method without the proper preparation, you might be sorry.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20. Don't overpower a friend with your contrary views. If he or she isn't interested, imposing your ideas won't go over too well.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22. You could have a short fuse when it comes to your tolerance for minor irritations. Try to keep everything in perspective, and remain unruffled by adversity.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. Unless you have something complimentary to say to co-workers, it might be best if you don't say anything at all. Even a well-meaning criticism could open Pandora's box.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. Your behavior with outsiders is likely to be far more respectful and pleasant than it is with your mate and/or family. Be honest about who is to blame for any dissension.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21. You're pretty good at giving advice, but not so when it comes to following guidance. This will be especially true when it comes to resource management.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20. Owing to much impatience on your part, you could damage your recent headway on an important venture. Try to take things one step at a time.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18. You're an imaginative person, but your thinking might be more negative than positive today. Don't allow a dark outlook to screen opportunities from your view.

Jobs victory in eye of the beholder

This supposed economic recovery has been pathetic. Although unemployment has declined from a sky-high 7.9 percent to a very high 7.7 percent, looking at the numbers closely gives room for pause — or panic. According to Barron's, the percentage of people of working age who are employed was actually lower at the end of February than at the end of June of 2009, when the deep recession allegedly ended. President Obama needs to come up with some ideas that will actually help this country's economy grow. If not, we will continue on the path of most of Europe — which is continued excessive spending, high unemployment and unrest.

Bigger is better

I really didn't notice anything new about the Metro, but when I got to the new enlarged crossword puzzle, wow, what a nice surprise! Now I don't have to squint anymore. Keep up the good work. FRAN MANNIX, VIA E-MAIL

As somebody who wears glasses, I appreciate some of the difficulties of not seeing well. I applaud you going with a grandpa-sized crossword in today's Metro. I'm curious, are you trying to set a record for largest crossword published in a daily newspaper? Grand though it is, doing so at the expense of the hard sudoku seems like too high a price.

GEOFFREY PALMER, VIA E-MAIL

US in double standard over Gitmo

The mainstream media is not telling the facts about Gitmo. The president still has not closed the place since he made the promise to do so. This compound still hosts torture and hunger strikes right now. If this were Russia, the United States would have a fit about this insidious behavior.

With the thawing of winter, animals and humans alike are starting to wake up and get outside. Members of Virtualtourist.com, a leading travel website, compiled a list of the "Top 10 Places to See Animals in the Wild."

Bandhavgarh National Park, India

Since 1993, this park has been considered a tiger reserve with the highest density of tigers in India, making it likely you'll spot one during your next visit.

Hol Chan Marine Reserve, Belize

The Hol Chan Reserve is one of the best places to snorkel in the Caribbean. Check out Shark Ray Alley, famous for its nurse sharks.

Volcans National Park, Rwanda

High in the mountains of Rwanda, 18 mountain gorilla groups reside — 10 of which can be visited. Since permits are required to visit, apply in advance.

Kangaroo Island, South Australia

In Australian winter (June to August), kangaroo and wallaby joeys start to emerge from their mother's pouch and feed alongside them while southern right whales migrate by.

Punta Tombo, Argentina

Punta Tombo is the best place to see Magellan Penguins within continental Patagonia. The recommended time to visit for optimal viewing is after November once the babies are born.

Parc Omega, Canada

From the safety of a vehicle, visitors to this Canadian park can see bison, elk, black bears and red deer, as well as both timber and arctic wolves. An added bonus: It's located close to Montreal and Ottawa.

Kruger National Park, South Africa

Kruger is a self-drive game park, meaning you can pick up illustrated maps at every entrance to the park and navigate for yourself, taking your time and stopping when you want.

Tortuguero National Park, Costa Rica

Tortuguero is a sanctuary for nesting sea turtles. Although the green turtle is the focus, hawksbill and leatherback turtles are also tagged by conservationists.

Katmai National Park, Alaska

While there are a great variety of animals to be found in this Southwest area of Alaska, visitors to Katmai are usually on the lookout for brown bears.

Red Sox still with talent on mound, in their 'pen

Red Sox. As always, Lester and Buchholz are the two players that must perform if the Sox want to win big.

There is no doubt that poor pitching was the biggest reason for the Red Sox's worst season in more than 45 years last season. The staff ranked 12 out of 14 AL teams in both ERA and wins, something uncharacteristic of the franchise for the past 15 years. There were talented arms — they just didn't perform to their potential.

Here is a look at the 2013 pitching staff, which added a few new faces, while returning much of the core:

Starters

The starting rotation looks to be (in order): Jon Lester, Clay Buchholz, Ryan Dempster, Felix Doubront and John Lackey. Two players not in the rotation last year were Dempster and Lackey.

Dempster was signed this offseason to a two-year deal worth $26.5 million. The 35-year-old went 12-8 with a 3.38 ERA between the Cubs and Rangers last year. Lackey is coming off of Tommy John surgery and seems determined to come back strong. He came into camp having lost about 15 pounds and seems primed for a successful 2013.

Although it's just spring training, Lester has been outstanding. In five appearances, he is 3-0 with a 0.90 ERA and has struck out 16 in 20 innings. He seems ready to overcome a disappointing 9-12 season last year. Buchholz was perhaps the teams' best starter last year, going 11-8 with a 4.56 ERA, but he will surely look to improve on that this year. Finally, Felix Doubront will be starting for a second full season. The southpaw started last season strong but tailed off down the stretch.

Bullpen

This, possibly, could be the biggest strength of the team this season. The team signed closer Joel Hanrahan this offseason, who had 76 saves the past two years with Pittsburgh. Also coming to Boston is Koji Uehara from the Rangers, who will be a viable setup man to compliment Andrew Bailey and Junichi Tazawa. Andrew Miller should have a role as a lefty specialist as well as Alfredo Aceves as a long reliever, especially with Franklin Morales likely to start the year on the disabled list. One question yet to be answered is whether or not Daniel Bard will begin the season in Boston or in the minors.

Bradley Jr. on fire

Jackie Bradley Jr. continued his torrid spring pace Monday against Baltimore, as he had a two-run single and a triple late in a 12-9 Sox loss. The outfielder is expected to be part of Boston's Opening Day roster next Monday against the Yankees in the Bronx.

Big ticket, big hurt

Garnett banged up, expected to miss several games

Kevin Garnett will take two weeks off to recover from inflammation in his left ankle.

Garnett was sidelined for the Celtics' loss to Memphis on Saturday night.

"I'll guess two weeks, just because we want to make sure he's really ready," Celtics president of basketball ops Danny Ainge told ESPN. METRO

Running down dream

Pats' speedster Demps to focus mainly on track

There were high hopes for Jeff Demps in training camp last season. But Demps is putting his track career ahead of his football career.

Asked when he will return to concentrate on the NFL, Demps told a Florida radio station, "Midseason. I'll probably miss three, four, maybe five games." METRO

NOT SEEING THE RESULTS YOU WANT FROM YOUR ANTIDEPRESSANT?

Please consider our depression research study.

Our office is conducting a research study to evaluate whether adding an investigational medication to an approved antidepressant therapy might give relief from the symptoms of major depressive disorder (MDD) when added to a current antidepressant.

You may be able to take part in this study if you:

- Are 18 - 65 years old,
- Have been diagnosed with Major Depressive Disorder (MDD),
- Have been experiencing symptoms of depression for at least the past 2 months,
- Have been taking at least one antidepressant medication as prescribed but it is not helping you enough.

Additional criteria will be assessed by the study doctor.

The study lasts 15 to 22 weeks. Participants will receive either the investigational medication or a placebo (an inactive substance).

All study-related medications, office visits and examinations will be provided to you at no cost.

Do you suffer from pain after Shingles (PHN)?

The symptoms of PHN (postherpetic neuralgia) can be debilitating. The deep burning pain and extreme skin sensitivity can greatly impact the quality of your life.

We are conducting a research study of a once daily, investigational form of pregabalin for the pain of PHN.

You may qualify for this study if:

- You are male or female, age 18 years old or older
- You have experienced persistent pain for more than three months after the duration of an episode of Shingles (herpes zoster skin rash)
- Have not been treated with pregabalin during the last 30 days.

Qualified applicants will receive study medication and all study-related physical exams and laboratory tests at no cost.
